ABOUT US

INTRODUCTION

Uma Amandopo was established in May 2024 and located in Ende, Flores Island, Indonesia, is a newcomer to the global agricultural commodities exporting industry. Uma Amandopo was founded by Patricia Mutiara, a young woman with a degree in international relations concentrating in international business, who wanted to promote quality agriculture commodities from our hidden paradise while empowering farmers through innovative marketing solutions for a sustainable and prosperous future.

Uma Amandopo offers its very first product, banana leaves, which have been highly sought after by restaurants, cafes, and other culinary businesses. Other ready-to-process commodities that are being prepared include coconut and its derivatives (coco fiber, coco peat, coco rope, coconut shell briquettes), cocoa powder, and cashew nuts. Uma Amandopo intends to guarantee both the quality and the sustainability of every product we offer by relying on qualified farmers and skilled workers in the manufacturing line.
