About MATOA WoodLiving

Our brand, MATOA WoodLiving (www.matoawoodliving.com)

design, manufacture, and promote Indonesia handmade wooden furniture from finest quality timber to be enjoyed around the world.

With our slogan: "Shape Your Environment"

we ensure our raw material do not come from protected forest.

We only utilize mature timber from plantations with predetermined number of trees that can be felled each year and continuous replanting performed every year.

This strict control sustains the rejuvenation of forest to safeguard environment and its ecosystems.

Matoa (Pometia Pinnata) is a large tropical hardwood and fruit tree species native to Southeast Asia and Pacific region, the fruit is edible and somewhat like lychee fruit. Matoa fruit rich in vitamin C and E along with antioxidant element.

Why Indonesian timber?

Indonesia lies on equator line with moist and warm tropical climate due to near-constant exposure to sunlight all year long.

The levels of sunlight and rainfall along equator line are ideal condition for largescale plant growth with almost half of the world's rainforests concentrated in these regions.

Among other Southeast Asia native trees:

Indonesian Teak tree (Tectona Grandis), and Mahogany tree (Toona Sureni) are well known tropical hard wood trees valued for its oil content, dense grain, and strength thus giving final furniture product long durability and weather resistance properties.
